

6. We sit down three times a day to the most luscious meals imaginable.
7. The best muskie and bass fishing is as close as your cabin door.
8. Indians do their dancing and log rolling for us.
9. We swap yarns and experiences, leisurely, with bridge players from six or seven states, and know them all by their first names when the games start.

You don't want to know all, do you? Just remember that the most active bridge players in the middle west are working their heads off to make this the best tournament of all.
